OPERATIONS AT SPANISH BELT
ARE RESUMED

After a period of many days' shut-down, caused by the inoperation of the power lines due to the heavy snows, the mill of the Consolidated Spanish Belt Silver Mining company has resumed operations, according to the announcement of John Seifert, vice-president and general manager of the company, who is in Tonopah today. When the excessive snowfall that preceded the holidays arrived, the lines supplying power to the new mill were interrupted, with the consequence that operations have been carried on only three days since December 21.

"Everything is running smoothly now," said Mr. Seifert, "and we are getting out some of the finest concentrates that have so far been produced at the mill. We have about 10 tons finished and in another eight days will be ready to move another car to the smelters at Salt Lake. The new orebodies that are being opened up are assisting materially in increasing the grade of concentrates that we are producing at the present time."

BAIN ANSWERS
CRITICISM OF ARENTZ BILL

The following letter has been received by the mining committee of the Salt Lake Commercial club from Dr. H. Foster Bain, director of the United States bureau of mines, and one of the framers of the Arentz mining bill, now under discussion in congress. It is in reply to a communication from the committee of Utah mine operators:

"I shall not, at this time at least, attempt to comment section by section on the report of the committee. I may say that many of the matters discussed were matters of detail, concerning which I do not feel that the particular draft of the Arentz bill is necessarily right. For example, in the matter of location of claims by cardinal points, and according to land surveys where the latter exist, the suggestion seems to be a proper one which accords with the method used in disposing of public lands in every other instance. I am no particular reason why the miner should be exempt from a requirement that the homesteader has to meet. At the same time, being a miner, I would not something which makes it easier for the miner; that appeals to me, and I cannot see that the government interest is in any way endangered by permitting the proposed square claim to be made in any fashion which the miner finds most economical and satisfactory to him.

"I am glad that the committee endorse the proposal to do away with apex rights with regard to future locations and recognizes the necessity for better records and better monitoring. I am sorry it does not endorse two other features which seem to me of real importance. One is the proposal to permit holding of ground temporarily in advance of discovery on some terms. If the particular terms are not satisfactory, I should like to see an effort made to frame some that will be. I believe there is a real necessity for legislation here."

ELY MAY LOSE ITS HIGHWAY TRAVEL

A determined effort is again being made in Utah to push the Lincoln highway through Ely off the map, according to press advices received during the week, according to the Tribune. These advices are to the effect that the Utah highway commission has designated the northern route from Salt Lake to Wendover as its primary highway and if this decision stands it will mean that the route roughly paralleling the Southern Pacific through Nevada will be designated as the primary road in this state. Under the Phipps-Dowell bill it is necessary for at least one primary state highway to be a connecting link in a transcontinental road. This means that Nevada must connect up with Utah and California, and if the Wendover route stands the Ely district will lose the travel over the Lincoln highway, which it has done so much to retain.

SANTA ROSA, Jan. 10.—Johanna B. Haberhauser, aged 19 years, daughter of a farmer of Belview, three miles from here, was found dead in bed early today, and the authorities are working on the theory that some one entered the room as she slept and placed poison in her mouth. The police are searching for a ranch hand who had been discharged by Haberhauser, who, it was said, had made threats against the lives of the farmer's family.

CASING FOR MERGER WELL
BEING MOVED

With rather limited progress, owing to the condition of the roads from Condit to the seat of the company operations, the big 10-inch casing of the Fish Lake Merger Oil company is being delivered to the well site of the big Fish Lake operating company, and before Saturday, at this week drilling will again be resumed, according to George A. Foster, vice president of the company.

It has been a long wait since the casing and new drilling tools were ordered from the coast. Weather has interfered largely with the work of getting the casing to the well, but now that the roads are still enough to stand moderate loads, deliveries will be made rapidly, and the 22 tons of well casing will be installed as soon as it reaches the property. Driller John Dietzel has returned from Los Angeles and today, with his helper, Ambrose Murphy, will commence the work of placing the big pipe.
